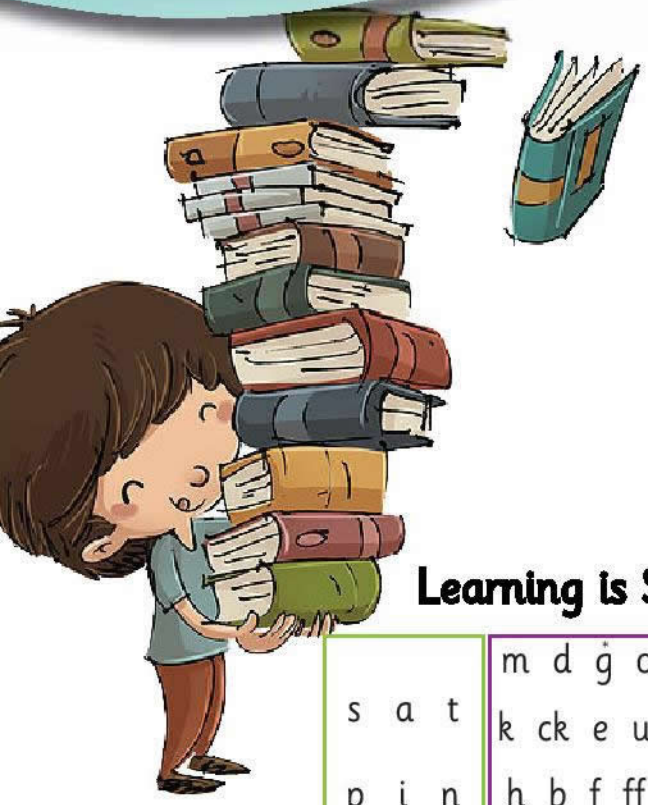
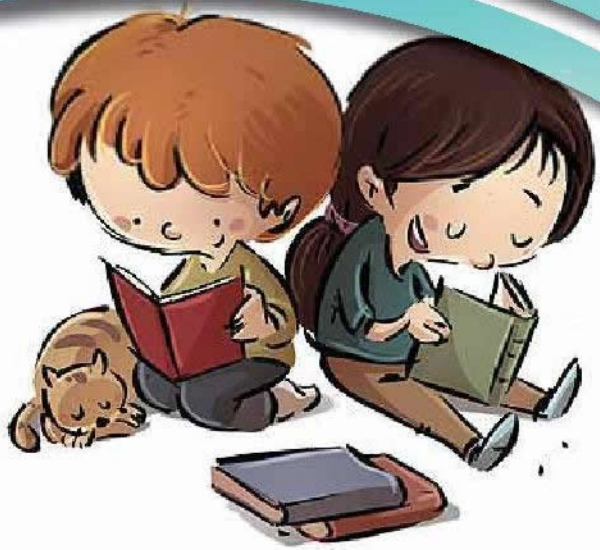
Code Level Reader Guide

Miss Emma has organised all according to graphemes used within the books.





Learning is Scaffolded and Sequential.

Achieving SSP Green Code Level Skills

Student: _____ Date: _____

Green Code Level Reporting

GCL = Green Code Level

Initial Concepts	Examples / Notes
All spoken words are made up of speech sounds.
When we 'Duck Hand' words we are isolating these speech sounds, and showing that we can segment the speech sounds in the right order, from left to right.
When we draw speech sound lines, and number them, we are again representing how we 'talk on paper' even before introducing the sound pic (letters/ letter strings)
Speech Sounds can be represented on paper using 'Pictures' of Speech Sounds. (If we took a picture of the speech sound with our Magic Speech Sound Camera, what might it look like ? We say MIGHT from the beginning. In this level it will always be that Sound Pic, as we have limited GCL words to just 6 Speech Sounds and 6 specific Sound Pics. They will soon realise the Code is not quite so simple, but we will scaffold this learning)
Speech Sounds are represented on paper from left to right.
When we end a whole word, there is a space on paper, as there is when we talk.
We can write whole sentences in Speech Sound Lines !
To start a Sentence on paper we use a Capital Letter, and to end it we use a Full Stop. It is like a 'breathing stop.'
We talk on paper to share messages, and so the information has to make sense to the person who then decodes it. (So when talking we might say things slightly differently)
Code Mapping means the mapping of speech sounds to their representations on paper (the Pictures) In order to send messages we translate the speech sounds in the words onto paper, from left to right, using a finger space to show the end of a word. (this is Encoding)
In order to read messages, if we are not sure, we can look at each 'picture' and follow the speech sounds to then say the whole word. When we do that we have 'blended' the speech sounds together. (This is Decoding)
When we have Code Mapped a message we need to think about what it means. This is why we use a group of sound pics to practise on. The faster we code, the more working memory we have to understand what we are Code Mapping !
When we draw the sound pics we need to make sure they are easy for others to read, and quick for us to form so that we can send really great messages ! (In Prep we use the RWI phrases, to remember the direction, and to link it with the speech sound) We are generally starting at the top, and using an exit so that we can start to flow more quickly, the more we practise. We are trying not to take the pencil off the paper, as this wastes encoding time and what we write is important. At this stage we are more focused on correct direction and speed, than size.

Achieving SSP Purple Code Level Skills

Student: _____ Date: _____

Purple Code Level Reporting

PCL = Purple Code Level

New Concepts	Examples / Notes
Speech Sounds can be represented by more than 1 sound pic and be similar (l le ll)
Speech Sounds can be represented by more than 1 sound pic, that can be very different (eg the first speech sound in sat and cent)
Sound Pics can represent more than one Speech Sound (eg c cat c cent)
Sound Pics can consist of 1 or more letters (ck le)
When 2 letters are together they still represent one speech sound (ss ll pp dd)

Skills Continue to be Scaffolded

THE STUDENT IS ABLE TO:		Examples / Notes
Isolate speech sounds in PCL words, as demonstrated using Duck Hands from left to right, and is able to apply this with reasonable accuracy with non PCL words.
Hear when PCL Words rhyme and identify the incorrect word in a spoken list (hill jim jill)
Draw or choose the correct number of Speech Sound Lines, number and then play them from left to right, saying the correct speech sounds as mapped with each line, and then blending into the whole word. Identify which speech sound 'sits' on which line. Choose the Correct Speech Sound Monster to sit on each line.
Further developing Code Mapping Skills through the use of PCL Words. Letter Names are generally introduced as relevant towards the end of this Code Level, as they are starting to understand the Clouds. Code Mapping skills now include the ability to:
Recognise the Speech Sound to Sound Pic links for PCL Words.
Code Map PCL words with confidence, including nonsense words created using the PCL Sound Pics (e.g. ges , llif)
Decode PCL words – using the 'Follow the Sound, Say the Word' technique.
Encode PCL words- using duck hands, lines and numbers, and then making the right Sound Pic choices.
